UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON AT SEATTLE

In re:

ADAM R. GROSSMAN,

Debtor.

No. 10-19817

REPLY OF TSAI LAW COMPANY, PLLC RE: TRUSTEE'S OBJECTION TO APPLICATION FOR COMPENSATION

COMES NOW the Tsai Law Company, PLLC ("Tsai Law Company", and alternatively, "Emily Tsai"), Court-appointed Special Counsel to the Debtor in this case, by and through its counsel, William F. Malaier, Jr. of Nagler & Malaier, P.S., and submits this Reply to the Chapter 7 Trustee's Objection to Application for Compensation of Tsai Law Group, Special Counsel to the Debtor (hereafter, the "Trustee's Objection"). This Reply is supported by the contemporaneously filed Declaration of Emily Tsai.

I. Summary Introduction

Judge Steiner's November 12, 2010 Order approving Ms. Tsai's employment as Special Counsel to the Debtor was valid as a matter of law because Ms. Tsai did not misrepresent anything to the Court at that time.

The Trustee's Objection amounts to little more than an exercise in the application of guilt by association, attempting at times, without any evidentiary basis, to implicate Ms. Tsai in the 1 allegedly unlawful transfer by the Debtor of over $700,000.00 out of the bankruptcy estate. The 2 Objection attempts to paint Tsai Law Company with the same broad brush of malfeasance that 3 has been applied to the Debtor in this case. Regardless of the Debtor's historical conduct in this 4 bankruptcy proceeding, neither Tsai Law Company nor Emily Tsai have participated in, defended 5 or otherwise furthered the alleged dishonesty that has been attributed to the Debtor by the 6 Chapter 11 Trustee. Rather, Emily Tsai was merely Debtor's divorce lawyer. She previously 7 obtained an Order of this Court (dated November 12, 2010) approving her employment as 8 Special Counsel, nunc pro tunc, as well as an Order of this Court entered on the same day 9 (November 12, 2010) denying a motion brought by the Debtor's ex-wife seeking disgorgement of 10 the $7,500.00 payment to Emily Tsai by Peter Hendrickson that has been referenced in the 11 Trustee's Objection. At the time of her appointment, and until we received the Trustee's 12 Objection, Ms. Tsai had no knowledge of the fact that the money she had received from Lyman 13 Opie (and disclosed to the Court at that time) was anything other than an unrestricted gift to be 14 applied to Debtor's legal fees incurred in his divorce proceeding. Thus, as to that payment and as 15 to the issues raised by the Trustee regarding Emily Tsai's appointment as Special Counsel to the 16 Debtor, collateral estoppel precludes further attacks on those issues, as well as subsequent attacks 17 based on the legitimacy of Ms. Tsai's appointment.

18 Nonetheless, if the funds from Mr. Opie are indeed a loan, and thereby constituted 19 property of the bankruptcy estate, nothing prohibits Ms. Tsai, as approved Special Counsel, to 20 partake of those funds in payment of her administrative claim. It is axiomatic that allowed 21 administrative claims are paid in full, ahead of general unsecured claims, from property of the 22 estate. The Trustee has offered no legal authority for his position that as an administrative 23 claimant, Ms. Tsai should have somehow been barred from being paid by Mr. Opie, even if Mr.
24 Opie's funds represented property of the bankruptcy estate.

25 The remaining bases for the Trustee's Objection are similarly lacking in merit. No 26 allegation has been leveled against Ms. Tsai with regard to the reasonableness of her fees, nor has 27

1 the Trustee cited any authority in support of his position that the money currently held in trust by 2 Ms. Tsai, tendered by Dennis Vidach and Susan Meyers under strict contingency that such funds 3 be used to pay Ms. Tsai's fees only, somehow constitute property of the bankruptcy estate and 4 should be forfeited (hereafter, the "Vidach Funds" and the "Meyers Funds", respectively)..

5 Ms. Tsai is a family lawyer in good standing with the Washington State Bar Association 6 who has attempted at every turn reasonably to comply with Bankruptcy Rule 2016 and 11 U.S.C.
7 § 329. The Trustee's attempts to negatively characterize Ms. Tsai are simply unfair and factually 8 unsupported.

9 The Chapter 7 Trustee's Objection should be overruled.

10 II. Argument

11 A. Ms. Tsai's Statements in Support of Application for Employment as Special 12 Counsel to the Debtor Were, to her Knowledge, True and Correct; as Such, 13 Collateral Estoppel Precludes Subsequent Attacks on the Legitimacy of the November 12, 2010 Order Approving her Appointment.

14 Collateral estoppel is synonymous with the concept of "issue preclusion", which treats as 15 final those issues which were actually and necessarily decided in a prior suit. See, for example, 16 Brown v. Felsen, 442 U.S. 127, 139 n. 10, 99 S.Ct. 2205, 2213 n. 10, 60 L.Ed.2d 767 (1979). In 17 order to prevail on its assertion of collateral estoppel as a defense to litigation, a defendant must 18 establish four criteria:

- 19 1) The issue sought to be precluded must be the same as that involved in the prior action;
- 20 2) The issue must have been actually litigated;
- 21 3) It must have been determined by a valid and final judgment; and
- 22 4) The determination must have been essential to the final judgment.

23 See, In re Berr, 172 B.R. 299 (9th Cir.BAP, 1994), citing, Clark v. Bear Stearns & Co., 966 F.2d 24 1318, 1320 (9th Cir.1992); Spilman v. Harley, 656 F.2d 224, 227-28 (6th Cir.1981); Matter of 25 Ross, 602 F.2d 604, 608 (3d Cir.1979).

1 In the instant case, the Trustee has based his Objection in part on the legitimacy of this 2 Court's Order approving Ms. Tsai's employment as Special Counsel to the Debtor, contending 3 that Ms. Tsai misrepresented the nature of Lyman Opie's payment to her of $20,000.00 on behalf
4 of the Debtor. The Trustee also makes reference to a similar payment in the amount of $7,500.00 5 from Peter Hendrickson, received nearly a month prior to the payment from Mr. Opie.

6 Based on a letter to Ms. Moewes from Lyman Opie's attorney, dated February 7, 2011, in 7 which Mr. Opie's counsel asserts that the $20,000.00 payment to Ms. Tsai was merely one of 8 four loans from Mr. Opie to the Debtor, the Trustee contends that Ms. Tsai misrepresented the 9 nature the payment on her Application for Employment. In fact, Ms. Tsai had no knowledge 10 whatsoever that the $20,000.00 payment from Mr. Opie was a loan to the Debtor, nor is there any 11 evidence before this Court that she knew. Appended to Ms. Tsai's declaration in support of this 12 Reply is an email to her from Mr. Opie at the time the payment was made. No reference to a loan 13 of any kind is made in that email.

14 Furthermore, contrary to the Trustee's assertion in his Objection, Ms. Tsai never 15 represented to the Court that the funds from Mr. Opie and Mr. Hendrickson were made "with no 16 strings attached". That statement does not appear in Ms. Tsai's November 4, 2010 declaration in 17 support of her Application for Employment (Docket # 43); and while it does appear in the 18 Debtor's Application to hire Ms. Tsai, it has no bearing whatsoever on the veracity of Ms. Tsai's 19 own declaration. The simple fact of the matter is that Ms. Tsai filed a sworn declaration that was 20 to her knowledge, true and accurate, based in part on the email to her from Mr. Opie himself.
21 For the Trustee to come forward at this late date and imply that Ms. Tsai intentionally misled this 22 Court borders on the defamatory.

23 The issues raised by the Trustee's Objection with regard to Ms. Tsai's statements in 24 support of the Debtor's Application to employ her as Special Counsel were dealt with by Judge 25 Steiner in November, 2010. As this Court is aware, Judge Steiner approved Ms. Tsai's 26 appointment as Special Counsel and simultaneously denied a motion for disgorgement of the 27

1 Hendrickson monies brought by Debtor's ex-wife. Per the criteria set forth in the Berr case, 2 supra., the issue before this Court now was indeed 1) the same issue before Judge Steiner in 3 November, 2010; 2) it was litigated to and through hearing; 3) a final ruling was entered; and 4) 4 the determination was essential to precise issue before the Court at that time, namely, Ms. Tsai's 5 appointment as Special Counsel to the Debtor. Thus, further attacks by the Trustee on the 6 legitimacy of the Order approving Ms. Tsai's employment are barred by collateral estoppel.

7 B. The Vidach Funds and the Meyer Funds are Not Property of the Estate, and are 8 Not Subject to Turnover

9 As the Court is aware from Declaration of Emily Tsai in Support of her Fee Application, 10 Ms. Tsai is currently holding in trust, pending further Order of this Court, the sum of $9,500.00 11 paid to her on January 28, 2011 by Dennis Vidach, and the sum of $20,000.00 paid to her on 12 February 2, 2011 by Susan Meyers. Both Mr. Vidach and Ms. Meyers have filed sworn 13 declarations with this Court stating that the funds were given "for the sole purpose of paying 14 [Debtor's] attorney in his family law action", and that "if the money is not to be used for this 15 purpose, it must be returned [to Mr. Vidach and Ms. Meyers]". See, Declarations of Dennis 16 Vidach and Susan Meyers filed contemporaneously with Ms. Tsai's Application for 17 Compensation.

18 With few exceptions, the Bankruptcy Code defines property of the estate as "all legal and 19 equitable interests of the debtor in property as of the commencement of the case." 11 U.S.C. § 20 541(a)(1). In cases under Chapter 11 in which the debtor is an individual, this definition is 21 expanded to include all property defined under 11 U.S.C. § 541 that the debtor acquires after the 22 commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted..." 11 U.S.C. § 23 1115(a)(1).

24 Regarding the validity of a gift of personal property, Washington law requires that certain 25 essential elements must be satisfied. Specifically, there must be 1) clear donative intent by the 26 gift-giver; 2) subject matter capable of passing by delivery; and 3) an actual delivery at the time 27

1 of the gift. See, for example, Henderson v. Tagg, 412 P.2d 112, 68 Wash.2d 188 (1966).
2 Washington law further requires that “delivery must be such as will divest the donor of the 3 present control and dominion over the property absolutely and irrevocably, and confer upon the 4 donee the dominion and control.” In re Slocum’s Estate, 83 Wash. 158, 145 P.204 (1915).

5 In the present case, the Vidach Funds and the Meyers Funds were deposited in Ms. Tsai’s 6 IOLTA account on the clear contingency that they be used for his legal fees incurred in the 7 family law proceeding. As such, because they were not delivered with an “absolute and 8 irrevocable” grant of “dominion and control” to the Debtor, they were not outright gifts as 9 defined under Washington law. Rather, those funds were plainly transferred to Ms. Tsai as a 10 conditional gift to the Debtor, vesting only for the purpose of payment for the Ms. Tsai’s work in 11 the divorce case. Absent approval of such payment, the funds were expressly required to be 12 returned to Mr. Vidach and Ms. Meyers.

13 The Trustee fails to assert any argument, let alone legal authority, for his proposition that 14 the Vidach Funds and the Meyers Funds constitute property of the bankruptcy estate. Moreover, 15 the Trustee fails to set forth any argument as to why those funds should not revert back to Mr.
16 Vidach and Ms. Meyers as a matter of law, if they are not to be used to pay Ms. Tsai’s fees.
17 Accordingly, those funds should either be paid to Ms. Tsai upon approval of her Application for 18 Compensation, or the Court should authorize Ms. Tsai to return the funds to Mr. Vidach and Ms.
19 Meyers immediately upon entry of an Order to that effect. Under no scenario should those funds 20 be paid into the bankruptcy estate.

21 C. The Trustee’s Remaining Factual Allegations Fail to Provide a Meaningful Basis
22 for Denial of Ms. Tsai’s Application for Compensation

23 In addition to the Trustee’s arguments regarding the validity of the Order approving Ms.
24 Tsai’s employment, his Objection sets forth a scattershot collection of factual allegations that 25 have no legal bearing on the precise issue before this Court. Instead, these allegations appear to 26 be a baseless attempt to visit the alleged sins of the Debtor upon his family lawyer.

1 The Trustee goes to great length describing the conduct of the Debtor, going so far at one 2 instance to imply that Ms. Tsai was involved in a transfer out of the bankruptcy estate by the 3 Debtor of $718,186.00. In fact, the Order addressing this particular issue, along with several 4 other documentary production requirements imposed upon the Debtor, was issued by Judge 5 Steiner on November 16, 2010, four days AFTER entry of the Order approving Ms. Tsai's 6 employment and denying the motion to disgorge. For the Trustee to imply that Ms. Tsai was 7 even tangentially involved in the conduct of the Debtor in his bankruptcy proceeding (outside of 8 his divorce proceeding) is unsupported by evidence of any kind and is just plain wrong.

9 The Trustee also takes issue with allegedly "huge chunks" of time redacted from Ms.
10 Tsai's billing statements appended to her declaration in support of the fee application. In reality, 11 the redactions were quite minor in nature and degree, and were made to protect sensitive 12 information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege. And while the Court can readily 13 access for itself the redacted statements on file to determine if they have been excessively 14 redacted, Ms. Tsai is willing to allow the Court and the Trustee to view the unredacted billing 15 statements en camera, should the Court desire to do so.

16 Finally, the Trustee makes much ado about Ms. Tsai's technical failure to comply with 17 Rule 2016(b) insofar as Ms. Tsai failed to file supplemental statements of monies received within 18 15 days of receipt. In this case, Ms. Tsai received the Vidach Funds on February 1, 2011 and the 19 Meyers Funds in early to mid-February, 2011 (via 4 separate checks totaling $20,000.00). Even 20 so, Ms. Tsai held those funds in her IOLTA account, and continues to do so. Her receipt of those 21 funds was plainly disclosed in the instant Application before the Court. Moreover, had Ms. Tsai 22 desired to hide those funds from the Court, she simply would not have applied for those fees or 23 made the disclosure in her Application; she did so in an attempt to comply with the law. For the 24 Trustee to argue that Ms. Tsai's technical violation of Rule 2016(b) should result in 25 disgorgement, when in fact the Trustee would not have even known of the existence of such 26
27

1 funds had not Ms. Tsai disclosed their existence in her Application before the Court, is 2 disingenuous at best.

3 III. Conclusion

4 The Trustee's Objection is largely premised on a faulty assertion; namely, that Ms. Tsai 5 misled the Court back in November, 2010 when her employment as Special Counsel to the 6 Debtor was approved by Judge Steiner, and that as a result, such Order was void. In fact, Ms.
7 Tsai disclosed the transfer from Lyman Opie when her Application for employment was initially 8 filed with Court, and the correspondence accompanying the payment from Mr. Opie to Ms. Tsai 9 made no indication that the funds were a loan to Debtor. Ms. Tsai had no knowledge of the 10 alleged loan, and made no representations to the Court beyond the fact that she had received the 11 funds.

12 The Trustee makes much of the fact that the funds paid to Ms. Tsai from Opie Lyman 13 were an unauthorized loan to the Debtor. Ms. Tsai had no knowledge of that alleged fact. Even 14 so, had the Lyman funds constituted property of the bankruptcy estate, Ms. Tsai, as Court-15 approved Special Counsel to the Debtor, would have been entitled to payment from those funds.
16 Ms. Tsai's claims are administrative in nature, and are thus entitled to payment from property of 17 the estate, ahead of general unsecured creditors. The Trustee has not asserted any authority to the 18 contrary.

19 The Trustee's other bases for opposing Ms. Tsai's Application for Compensation are 20 factual in nature and immaterial to the legal question before the Court. The Trustee has made 21 every effort to convince the Court that Ms. Tsai should be punished for the alleged wrongs of her 22 divorce client, and those allegations are not simply unfounded.

1 WHEREFORE, Ms. Tsai and Tsai Law Company respectfully request that the Court
2 overrule the Trustee's Objection, and in so doing, grant the Application for Compensation 3 presently before the Court.

4 DATED this 24th day of May, 2011.
